Getting hurt is bad. Getting hurt because someone else chose their own personal interests over safety is wrong. At McNees Wallace & Nurick, the Personal Injury team is committed to helping injured people get back what was taken from them. The time after a car accident or a trucking accident is frightening and confusing. A family can feel burdened with the insurance process. Who pays medical bills? Who fixes the car? Is there a rental? Do I talk to the other person's insurance company? For that matter, do I talk to my own insurance company? Do I need to file a lawsuit? The top accident attorneys at McNees can help carry your burdens, so you can do what is important—take care of your family.

At McNees we take a Client's 1st approach. That means we are attorneys near you, and we will meet you wherever you feel most comfortable. We can come to your home. We will even discreetly come to the hospital. We are here in your time of need. Client's 1st also means we believe the focus should be on you, the client. We do not advertise on billboards or on television. It is more important for our personal injury clients, that we bring to bear the formidable resources of the whole firm to your case. When legal problems related to a tractor-trailer accident or motorcycle accident arise, which are not directly part of the injury claim, our clients benefit from all our services. McNees attorneys can assist with estate issues, tax questions, and insurance coverage disputes.

Since 1935, McNees has provided excellent legal representation in communities across Pennsylvania. We are conveniently located near Routes 81, 83, and 322 in the Harrisburg Area, and our offices in Lancaster, York, and State College are available for meetings.
